

Gintaras Stauskis is Doctor of Humanities in Architecture, Professor at the Department of Urban Design, VILNIUS TECH. PhD in Architecture (1994), Prof. (2016). Manager of research projects and programmes. Licensed urban planner, architect and project manager for conservation of heritage buildings and sites.

G. Stauskis has earned a long and successful experience of managing collaborative research projects under the EU and national programmes. Established university team leader and research organiser in a wide range of topics ranging from humanization of built environment (inclusive open spaces, city for all, healthy environment) to sustainable planning and design (regeneration of built environment, sustainability and green building), G. Stauskis is an excellent manager of national and EU research, development and innovation programmes. The projects managed by G. Stauskis in recent period range from green urbanism, modernisation of residential areas, sustainable mobility systems, immersive environments.

G. Stauskis is a member of municipal and public committees and working groups in regional and urban planning, inclusiveness and education. The author of numerous research publications on the theoretical and practical issues in the scientific, professional and public media. He has been guest-lecturing in urban planning and architecture at the universities in Tokyo, San Paulo), Helsinki and Tampere, Braunschweig and Bauhaus in Weimar, Prague, Seville, Lisbon, Rome and other.

G. Stauskis is chairing the Study Committee for Landscape Architecture and the Doctoral Committee in Arts and Humanities (Architecture, Landscape Architecture, Urbanism) at VILNIUS TECH. G. Stauskis is member of the Lithuanian Chamber of Architects, a board member of the Lithuanian Association of Landscape Architects, as well as a Board member of the Lithuanian Green Building Council.

E-mail: Gintaras.Stauskis@vilniustech.lt

Publications: <https://vgtu.academia.edu/GintarasStauskis>

August 2025